Responsibilities. Students are responsible for reading, understanding, obeying and respecting all academic policies, with added emphasis being placed upon academic progress policies, appearing in the Wayland Baptist University Academic Catalog applicable to their curriculum and/or program of study. This class will adhere to zero tolerance for using someone else's work as your own.

Class Participation: Participation is the key requirement to succeed in any on-line course. This class requires vigorous student participation in discussion threads, which by design should enrich your knowledge as we see how other students and the Professor apply the text's theory to real-life.

Discussion Requirements: Students must respond to each new session discussion question by Wednesday of the week presented. Students must then reply to one or two other student's posts for each numbered Discussion Thread by the close of that session and by Sunday post a comment to any extra discussions threads noted in the session outline. The minimum number of posts is provided, however, most students enjoy the dialog and post often pushing up their participation points.

Key Dates: Mid Term Exam in Session 5 or 6; Final exam in Session 10 or 11; Term Paper due in Session-7; Term Paper PowerPoint Presentation due in Session-9

Make Up/Absence Policy: Students must participate in on-line courses, submitting on-time assignments for each week. Student participation failures during a week should be rare exceptions and not the rule. Before any part of course work is missed the student will inform the Professor of the circumstances. All assignments must be completed to pass this course. Assigned homework is measured out across each session and is manageable week by week.

Make-up homework. For any homework that is late students will be required to complete make-up homework, arranged with the Professor. Scheduled assignments submitted late for any reason will be marked down a minimum of 10%. Work turned in during the following session is marked down 105, but grade reductions then begin a 1.5 percent reduction by the day which continues until received. Only communication with the Professor can reduce late charges.

Effort: Students should expect to spend 6-8 hours minimum per week on this class. Log in to the course site, participate in the topic discussions, and complete all assigned tasks as provided by the Professor in the session outlines each week. Take care not to fall behind; online course work is cumulative, very difficult to make-up later (e.g., missed homework, discussions)

Term-Paper: Students will complete a research paper for this class. The paper should be a minimum of eight pages, a maximum of twelve pages (not counting title or reference pages), and should utilize between four to eight references (minimum of two references must be academic or scholarly references, e.g. books, significant research, journals, etc.). Paper is required to have two graphical elements (tables, charts, artwork, etc.) Students present an Executive Summary of this paper to the class via PowerPoint. Papers must utilize APA format. Topics for papers must be pre-approved and be off the list provided. This research paper is intended to be a summary of the textbook information on the topic chosen and researching the topic a cut deeper.

Presentation: Students need to be able present information as managers; the research paper or Term Paper will be the source material for each student's presentation. Presentations will be graded on presentation of ideas in term-paper, graphical elements employed to communicate the information and quality of delivery. Peer review by the class on-line in blog fashion will complete the assignment.

Special Needs/Accommodation: "It is university policy that no otherwise qualified disabled person be excused from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subject to discrimination under any educational program or activity in the University. Students should inform the instructor of existing disabilities at the first class meeting.

Brief Bio: Professor Darrel Erickson earned his Bachelor of Management and Master of Technology Management degrees from the University of Maryland. Additionally, he earned Project Management Institutes (PMI) certification as a Project Management Professional (PMP) and is active in the PMI Honolulu Chapter. He has 25 years of management and leadership experience serving as an Imaging Officer in the U.S. Navy promoted to Officer from the enlisted ranks. It was during this fast-paced career that he completed his college studies by night courses and on-line study.

Who should take this course? Professor recommends this course not only for the Management Degree seeking student but also as a foundational course for anyone interested in becoming an excellent manager or needing a better understanding of a manager's responsibilities. The core concepts of this course are universal and applicable to all levels of management in governmental, for-profit and non-profit organizations.
