We want to you know we continue to monitor the COVID-19 outbreak across all of our Wayland campuses and we remain committed to helping flatten the curve by observing directives put in place by federal, state and local authorities.

All Wayland campuses and teaching sites are under some form of emergency order issued by state and local authorities. We remain committed to being in compliance with those authorities.

Across the Wayland Baptist University system, our students and employees are reporting in through an online form. Of those who have reported; 37 persons are experiencing some symptoms and have reported those to their doctor
58 report they have placed themselves in self-isolation as a precaution
20 report having been in contact with someone who has been confirmed to have or is suspected to have COVID-19

Our campuses continue to adhere to federal, state and local guidelines for social distancing and safe hygiene.

Three of our campuses in Texas, which include the Plainview, Lubbock and San Antonio campuses, have offered their parking lots, indoor facilities and other resources to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers should they need it. We have made these places available to those local communities and health authorities as well.

Summer classes are being scheduled as normal, but we are prepared to move those online should circumstances warrant.

It is important to remember, if you have filled out the Health Form and your health condition changes, please resubmit a new form so we can know about the well-being of our students and employees. Let us not grow complacent, but remember it is vital that we be responsible and diligent in this effort. You can access the Health Form here.
WBU students and employees are strongly encouraged to continue to monitor this webpage, WBU email, text messages and Pioneer Alerts for new developments or additional instructions.
